

PALMYRA BOY VICTIM FATAL TRAFFIC ACCIDENT

SUN'S ECLIPSE
TOMORROW CAN

Will Begin At 2:27 P. M.:
Smoked Glass Is Essential

(Editor's Note — Tomorrow's eclipse of the sun, which will be visible in Dixon and which will be about 90 per cent total, will begin at 2:27 Dixon time. It should be viewed only through a smoked glass, otherwise the observer's vision may be seriously impaired.)

Conway, N. H., Aug. 30—(AP)—As the hour draws near for Wednesday's solar eclipse, this town seems to assume the aspects of a moon village.

The 200 and more scientists assembled hereabouts from all parts of this country and many foreign nations to witness the spectacle were in virtual readiness today but difficulties were accumulating in other directions.

Scores of visitors began to pour in by automobile, only to find the restricted accommodations were already taxed. Although a few rooms remained available in the private homes, even these were dwindling rapidly.

The same report came from surrounding communities in the path of totality. Hotels whose proprietors were lamenting a quiet season only a few days ago, found themselves at a loss to house even those who had reservations weeks in advance.

Weather Only Doubt
The various scientific groups securely located in open spaces made last minute adjustments, but announced the weather was the only thing in doubt for the highly complex experiments they hope to complete.

New Englanders will first see the total eclipse at Derby, Vt., at 3:27 P. M. (EST)—2:27 Dixon time.

The eclipse will be total over a belt 100 miles wide. The center line of totality runs down from Canada through Derby, Vt., across the White Mountains in New Hampshire, through Fryeburg and Biddeford in Maine and out across Massachusetts Bay.

In the area of totality the sun will be blotted out for 100 seconds in Canada and about 90 seconds in New England. From beginning to end the eclipse will last approximately two hours.

Outside the area of totality there will be a partial eclipse in every part of the United States. From northwest to the coast the eclipse is only something to be looked at through smoked glasses.

To witness the corona one must go to the area where the eclipse will be total.

Chicago Judge Is Near Death Here

Judge Sheridan Frye, aged 65, veteran jurist in the Court of Domestic Relations in Chicago, was critically ill at the Dixon public hospital today with little hope being entertained for his recovery. The jurist submitted to an emergency operation for appendicitis yesterday.

Last Friday Judge and Mrs. Frye drove from Peoria to Polo to visit her sister, Miss Lillian Schell, who is a Chicago school teacher who maintains a summer home at Polo, and her two brothers, Emanuel and Eugene Shell. Dr. C. H. Ives of this city, a boyhood chum of the judge, was summoned to Polo and ordered his immediate removal to the local hospital, where he submitted to an emergency appendicitis operation shortly before noon. His condition was quite critical at the time and he has grown rapidly weaker since with little hope being entertained for his recovery. Mrs. Frye who was visiting in Polo and Mrs. Pearson were summoned to his bedside last evening.

JUSTICE SAYS
GOVERNOR CAN REMOVE MAYOR

New York Courts Have No Jurisdiction In Current Hearing

BULLETIN
New York, Aug. 30—(AP)—George S. Collins, the Mayor's secretary, said today Mayor James J. Walker is ill in bed with nervous exhaustion and has been ordered by his physician to take a complete rest.

Collins said the Mayor has made no plans yet to return to Albany for the resumption Friday afternoon of the hearing before Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt on the removal charges against him.

"Whether Mayor Walker may ask the Governor for a postponement," Collins said, "will all depend on his condition."

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 30—(AP)—The right of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt to remove Mayor James J. Walker from office has been established by a court decision.

Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley ruled last night that the Governor had the authority to remove the mayor, and that in conducting the hearing he was not bound by the courts to adhere to any rule of judicial procedure.

Justice Staley cited precedents by which he observed the Governor might be said to be in error in three instances in his conduct of the proceedings, but he pointed out that the courts have no right to interfere.

"Courts have no power over his (the Governor's) person," he wrote, "and they cannot commit him for a disobedience of judicial process."

"For errors, if any, of law or of fact in the proceeding now before him he is responsible, not to the courts, but to the people and his own conscience."

'Victory' Says Curtin
In reply to Mayor Walker's contention that he is not being given a fair hearing because, instead of calling all of the witnesses who testified against the Mayor before the Hofstadter legislative committee, Governor Roosevelt has admitted the committee's reports as evidence, Justice Staley, after quoting previous interpretations of the law, observed:

"The requirement for a fair trial and the provisions of Section 34 of the Public Officers Law do not countenance, in my judgment, wholesale receipt and use of testimony taken by an investigating committee. The relator in this

Lose Battle With Russian Mud

When Alva Christensen, left, and Mary L. Degive, right, adventurous society girls of Atlanta, Ga., decided to make an automobile tour of Soviet Russia, they evidently forgot to inquire about road conditions. Consequently, after penetrating only 200 miles into Soviet territory, they were forced to have their auto pulled out of the bogs by obliging Russians and shipped into Moscow by train. The mud was too much for them. Undaunted, they plan to continue the trip, but they hope the rains hold off until they have finished.

PRETTY WIDOW
ELECTS TRIAL
WITHOUT JURY

Judge Harry Fisher to Hear Case Against
Dorothy Pollak

Chicago, Aug. 30—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Pollak, the pretty widow who sent a bullet into her husband's head and then called the police, July 27, elected a trial without jury today.

She was immediately placed on trial for murder before Chief Justice Harry H. Fisher of the Criminal Court—and before a crowd that packed the courtroom to the doors and required a special detail of 25 balliffs to preserve order in the corridors.

Garbed in the mourning dress she has worn at every public appearance she has made since the killing, Mrs. Pollak was ushered to the bar with her cousin, Mrs. Victoria Schultz, indicted as an accessory.

Witnesses were sworn, and the state, which has indicated it would demand Mrs. Pollak's death in payment for her husband's, took a short recess to assemble other witnesses. One, Mrs. Pollak's father, Simon Mysza, has been missing for several days and is sought by the prosecutors.

Prior to the opening of trial the defense attorney, W. W. O'Brien had expressed a desire to try the case with a jury of women, this, however, being without constitutional sanction in Illinois, the trial by judge was elected.

Liquor Found On Rich Man's Yacht

Chicago, Aug. 30—(AP)—Because a yacht captain desired to maintain his reputation for being a certain that he was not violating the immigration laws, he and the owner of the boat, Kenneth G. Smith, wealthy president of the Republic of China, have been summoned to explain the presence on the boat of choice liquors valued at $2,500.

The yacht captain, Claude Newman, yesterday asked that a Customs Inspector clear the yacht, which had just returned from Canada, in accordance with the regulations. He said two guests had accompanied Smith back from Canada and they desired there be no question about their presence in the country.

Instead of making a cursory inspection the Customs Inspector made a survey of the whole boat, a 180-foot motor yacht, and found the liquors. The contraband was seized and Smith and Captain Newman instructed to appear before Collector Anthony Czarnecki today for questioning.

No Recovery From
Insull Util. Stock

Chicago, Aug. 30—(AP)—There is so little likelihood of recovering any assets for the investors in Insull Utility Investments, Inc., Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley said today, that receivers and their counsel must get along on less compensation than is really their due.

He ordered payment of $7500 each to the two receivers, Calvin Pentress and George A. Cooke, for five months services, on account pending final determination of the compensation. They had asked $2000 a month.

Compensation at a similar rate was allowed two law firms as counsel for the receivers. The court order noted that the condition of Insull Utility Investments at the time the receivers were appointed was "utter demoralization and bewildering complication." The company once was a $22,000,000 investment trust holding Insull Utility securities.

SPEED RECORDS
FACING ASSAULT
AT AIR CONTEST

Transcontinental Record
Was Broken Twice
Yesterday

New York, Aug. 30—(AU)—Captain James G. Haulp, who set a new transcontinental flight record yesterday, took off at 12:45 P. M. (EST) for the air races at Cleveland Ohio. He was followed one minute later by Captain Roscoe Turner, who also broke the old transcontinental record in a flight yesterday from Los Angeles.

Shortly before their planes zoomed into the air the fliers said they would not race to Cleveland. Haulp's "breakfast in Los Angeles and dinner in New York" dash yesterday lopped 56 minutes from the record made a year ago under similar conditions by Major James Doolittle, who flew the distance in 11 hours and 15 minutes.

He raced his tiny black and white monoplane at an average speed of about 250 miles an hour, sometimes reaching 275 miles an hour. He maintained a high altitude all the way, rising to 14,000 feet over the Rockies.

He was trailed into Floyd Bennett field 38 minutes after his arrival by Turner whose time for the same distance was 10 hours and 57 minutes.

Besides the record, the flight netted Haulp a trophy and $9,250 in prize money.

SPEED RACES TODAY
Cleveland, Aug. 30—(AP)—The challenge of super-speed, and with it, perhaps, the world's airplane record, today faced the 1932 national air races.

With a new trans-nation race king crowned yesterday, in the person of James Haulp, who brought the Atlantic and Pacific within 10 hours and 15 minutes of each other, the goal was to find a successor to the landplane speed throne occupied since 1924 by France.

Not since 1924, when the Air Corps swept to victory in the now extinct Pulitzer trophy race with a speed of 248 miles an hour, has the air races been able to boast of true racing progress, and the feat of the Ferguson, Mo., pilot of striking a faster gain in clipping nearly an hour from the former Los Angeles-to-New-York record was taken as a cue for an assault on France's mark of 278.480 miles an hour.

Sen. Davis Pleads Not Guilty Today
New York, Aug. 30—(AP)—United States Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania pleaded not guilty today to two indictments charging him with distribution and sale of lottery tickets and with conspiracy. Bail was set at $1,000.

A plea of not guilty was also entered by Theodore G. Miller, co-defendant with Davis in the two indictments.

Miller is a publicity man and an executive of the Loyal Order of Moose, of which Davis is the national head.

The indictments refer to alleged lotteries said by federal investigators to have been conducted by the fraternal organization in connection with its benevolent undertakings for disabled members and dependents of members.

Miller's bail was also set at $1,000.

Senator Davis was indicted by the federal grand jury on Aug. 18 with six other men and the Western Union Telegraph Company.

All but Davis and Miller pleaded not guilty before today.

IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENT
Donald Rossiter, 1221 North Galena avenue, was badly cut about the face and head shortly before noon Sunday in an automobile crash on North Galena avenue and Morgan street. He was driving south on Galena avenue when a car said to have been driven by Mrs. E. H. Eshelman of Sterling entered from the east. The Sterling car crashed into the rear of Rossiter's machine throwing it against the curb and a light pole on the west side of the street and turning it over. Rossiter sustained deep gashes about the head and face which required 14 stitches to close, but was resting quite comfortably at his home today. His car was badly damaged.

REMAINED UNCONSCIOUS

PICKET FORCES OF FARMERS AT
DES MOINES FAIL

Omaha Mayor Has Order
Breaking Up Of Blockade There

BULLETIN
Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 30—(AP)—Farm produce was brought unhindered into Des Moines today following the collapse of the last strong Farmers' Holiday picket line.

OMAHA MAYOR ACTS
Omaha, Neb., Aug. 30—(AP)—Mayor R. L. Metcalfe of Omaha today ordered city officials to break up the blockade established just outside the city limits by Farm Holiday strikers, last night.

The Mayor, in his order, invoked a section of the city charter that gives Omaha jurisdiction for three miles beyond its limits. A blockade against milk and fresh farm produce, the Mayor ruled, is a health matter.

Sheriff McDonald immediately started swearing in 20 special deputies to aid in pushing the strikers back beyond the three mile limit. The Sheriff, however, said he was convinced the task is hopeless and stated he believed only the National Guard would be effective.

OFFICERS START DRIVE

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 30—(AP)—Law enforcement officials began a new drive on several sectors of the farm war for higher prices today to prevent further violence, following a flareup in which eleven special deputies were injured.

The eleven officers were hurt in a clash with picketing farmers near Cushing, Iowa, last night. A running fight between the farmers and 50 officers occurred while the deputies were escorting five truck loads of hogs from the farm of William Turner, of near Moline, to the Ida county line. The deputies said the strikers attacked them with pipes and sticks.

Of the eleven, H. Vander Steeg, Harry Barnholtz and Paul Curran were the most seriously hurt. Steeg suffered several fractured ribs, as well as cuts and bruises.

Sheriff Admits!
Determined to break up the picket lines around Des Moines, county authorities moved to enforce with an iron hand their edict that the roads into this Capital city of Iowa be kept open. Thirteen strikers or sympathizers were arrested.

LAWRENCE PIPER
STRUCK BY IOWA
CAR MONDAY EVE

Died Early Today Without Regaining Consciousness

The second automobile fatality in Lee County in as many days occurred this morning in the death of 11-year-old Lawrence Piper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Piper, who reside on a farm five miles west of Dixon along the Lincoln highway in Palmyra township. The boy was walking toward his home last evening about 5:30 accompanied by an older brother, Harold, when he was struck by a Chevrolet sedan driven by a man giving the name of Merritt and his home as Anamosa, Iowa, who, with another man and three women, was enroute to Chicago.

The two brothers, had started to drive a car to the home of a neighbor, about a half mile west of their home when their gasoline supply became exhausted. They left the car parked on the shoulder of the highway and started to walk back home. Lawrence was walking about 50 feet ahead of his elder brother and, according to the latter's statement, about two feet off the paving. A truck and three passenger cars were driving west around a curve, when the Iowa sedan, going east, rounded the curve at a high rate of speed, according to Harold's statement. The Iowa car swerved to the right to avoid the truck and struck the boy with the right front fender, throwing his body into the ditch. The driver of the car stopped and took the injured lad to the home of his parents where he gave his name as Merritt and his home as being in Anamosa, Iowa, then with the others, proceeded on his way. No report of the accident was made at the office of Sheriff Fred Richardson until about noon today.

REMAINED UNCONSCIOUS
A physician was summoned to the home and upon examination, found that both legs had been badly mangled and the arms were badly mangled and he was in an unconscious condition, suffering from concussion of the brain. He never regained consciousness and was removed to the Dixon public hospital where he passed away at 6 o'clock this morning.

Coroner Frank M. Banker of Franklin Grove conducted an inquest at the Preston mortuary at 10 o'clock this morning. The jury returning a verdict that the death was due to concussion of the brain and other injuries, resulting from his being struck by the Iowa car. After the inquest when the first report of the accident, each of the Sheriff's office, an investigation was begun to more definitely establish the identity of the driver of the car.

Lawrence was born in Oregon and had lived in Palmyra township for the past seven years. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Piper, and the following brothers and sisters: Harold, Mildred, Blanche and Robert. All at home. Funeral arrangements had not been completed today and will be announced later.

Nelson Ball Game
Ended In Dispute

The Nelson Cardinals and Orioles, played a seven and one-third inning game at the Eberly field on Sunday, the game ending in the first of the eighth with the score tied 2 and 2. With third occupied by one out, pitcher Dawson forced the next batter to ground out at second and the runner was doubled at the plate. A disputed decision by the umpire at first base resulted in Manager Walker's team leaving the field. Dawson pitching for the Cardinals fanned 15 opposing batters and twirled a fine game up to this point. Williamson pitched for the Orioles and fanned nine. The teams lined up as follows:

Cardinals — Ortiguesen, rf; F. Mossholder, ss; V. Dawson, p; C. Clissen, cf; M. Gale, c; Wallace, 2b; E. Bohken, rf; Bartholomew, 1b; Bergonz, 3b.

Orioles — McDaniels, ss; Black, cf; Bohken, cf; Rogers, 2b; F. Clack, 3b; Walters, lf; Janssen, rf; Williamson, p.

Next Sunday the Cardinals play Van Petten at the latter's field.

Tropical Storm
Was Only Scarce

Miami, Fla., Aug. 30—(AP)—The tropical storm that gave south Florida a scare but did little known damage was losing intensity today in moving over thinly settled Everglades swamps from the Atlantic toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Richard W. Gray, meteorologist at the Miami Weather Bureau, located the center of the disturbance 40 miles south of Fort Myers, this morning and disclosed its force decreased after it swept in from the ocean last night. He said it would eventually pass out into the Gulf of Mexico.

The throne of the Sultan of Turkey is of massive beaten gold, studded with diamonds, rubies and emeralds set in mosaic. It has been appraised at more than $15,000,000.

rested, and Sheriff Charles P. Keeling said he would swear in 100 special deputies to gain his point. Meanwhile the Chamber of Commerce at Sioux City, one of the strategic points in the Farmers' Holiday movement, asked that state aid come from Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska to put an end to the strike. Conditions in the Sioux City area were described by the Chamber as "intolerable," and said the local authorities were unable to cope with the situation.

No action was taken by the Governor, and Gov. Dan Turner of Iowa indicated he favored leaving the situation in the hands of county officials.

Grand Jury To Act

Action against scores of men arrested in Council Bluffs in connection with picketing activities there was imminent today. Sheriff P. A. Linnson said he was preparing to present evidence to a grand jury. In Webster county, Iowa, also, county action was planned. John E. Mulrooney, County Attorney, said he had ready several warrants for filing against pickets, charging them with obstructing public highways.

Nearly 1,000 Plymouth, Woodbury, and Cherokee county Farmers' Holiday adherents who met in Cherokee, were told by their leader, Ed Martin, Plymouth county farmer, that all violence in connection with picketing must stop. Meanwhile the holiday grew in several new sectors.

C. F. Eggers, chairman of a Sioux Falls, S. D., producers association, said a general blockade would begin today, following a failure to boost milk prices 50 cents to a maximum of $1.75 a hundredweight.

Picketing continued near Fort Dodge, Cherokee, and Tipton today.

Nation's "Great Men" in

1840 Made Poor Showing

"The great (I mean in station) men in congress assembled look much like other specimens of the genus homo," wrote John G. Lowe, of Dayton, Ohio, after a visit to Washington in 1840. "Indeed, some of their countenances were not very strongly marked with indices of talent or statesmanly capability. The senate, albeit all the degeneracy (as is said and always has been of the present) of the times, yet presents the appearance of a grand and dignified assembly. American nobility—not the nobility of blood, but the nobility of character—are found there."

I heard some of the senators speak. Was not gratified with Mr. Crittenden, who seems filled to the brim with the feelings of a ready orator. Mr. Calhoun struck me as a master spirit, be it of evil or of good. The great Webster, too, spoke like one strong and unyielding in his convictions of right. There, too, sat the illustrious Henry Clay. He did not speak whilst I was in the senate chamber, but I had heard him a few days before at the convention. To look at him is enough for one who is interested in observing the noble traits of the human face divine. Near Mr. Clay sat the accomplished and classic Preston, a man whose appearance ill bespeaks the vivacious elegance and brilliancy of his oratory.—Detroit News.

Theatrical Rovers in

China Well Patronized

Like an American circus, perhaps the most interesting thing about a Chinese traveling troupe is the erection of the "big top" in which the performances are held. Although not as big as the "Greatest Show on Earth," the oriental structure is unique in that it is constructed entirely of bamboo, fiber matting, and native wood. One "head canvasser" claimed that not one nail was used in erecting the temporary playhouse. The framework was entirely of wood, bound together with thin strips of bamboo bark, peeled off and dried. The enormous skeleton was then covered with fiber matting. The "tent" was over 60 feet high, and had a large seating capacity.

The performances given by the itinerant players are a source of great amusement to the many Chinese patrons who flock to the main entrance. The scenery is practically nil, the spectator being called upon to supply in his imagination the lack of stage equipment. Costly costumes and pantomime are the principal stock in trade of the Chinese stage favorites. The excruciating "music" of the native orchestra is indispensable in making the play a hit, and the lines of the various characters are punctuated by ferocious clanging of gongs or by the weird outburst of flutes and stringed instruments.—Patfinder Magazine.

Typewriter Old Idea

The first typewriter of which there is record was patented in England as early as 1714. Over a century later, in 1829, the first American typewriter, called a topographer, was patented by W. A. Burt. In 1833 a typewriter was produced in France, having a separate key lever for each letter. In 1844 and in 1846 typewriting machines were invented in England which, like many other early machines, were designed primarily for use of the blind. Between 1840 and 1850 Sir Charles Wheatstone invented several typewriters, which are now in the South Kensington museum.

White Mahogany

The forest service says that white mahogany is a trade name for Primavera, which is found on the western coast of Mexico and southward to Guatemala. The wood is moderately heavy and hard, works well and is said to give little trouble by warping. It is creamy white to yellowish brown in color. The grain is interlocked and the pores are of about the same size as in true mahogany, so that the figure produced, especially when finished with a mahogany stain, is similar to that of true mahogany.

"Preserving" Husband

Please publish how "To Preserve a Husband." Be careful in your selection; do not choose too young, and take only such as have been reared in a good, moral atmosphere. Some insist on keeping them in a pickle, while others keep them in hot water. This only makes them sour, hard and sometimes bitter. Even poor varieties may be made sweet, tender and good by garnishing them with patience, well sweetened with smiles and flavored with kisses. Then wrap them in a mantle of charity, keep warm with a steady fire of domestic devotion and serve with peaches and cream. When thus prepared they will keep for years.—Washington Star.

Cushing Sinks Albemarle

OF THE feat performed by Lieut. R. P. Hobson during the Spanish-American war—"bottling up" Cervera's fleet by sinking the old collier Merrimac in the channel of Santiago harbor—one school history says, "It was one of the bravest deeds ever done in war and will never be forgotten." The same history says nothing about how Lieut. William Barker Cushing blew up the Confederate warship Albemarle in the Roanoke river in 1864.

Cushing, a native of Wisconsin and a page in the national house of representatives, was appointed to Annapolis at the age of nineteen but resigned at the outbreak of the Civil war to volunteer in the navy. Cushing repeatedly distinguished himself until he was made a lieutenant in 1862.

The Confederate iron-clad Albemarle had successfully beaten off an attack by Federal gunboats and then retired up the Roanoke river where she lay, a constant threat to the Federal blockade. A circle of heavy logs, boomed well out from her side, had been placed around the vessel as a protection against torpedoes.

Cushing volunteered to destroy the enemy ship, and, knowing the desperate nature of the enterprise, remarked to his brother officers, as he set out with a small crew in a steam launch, towing an armed cutter, that it means "another stripe or a coffin." By some freak of luck his launch was within a short distance of the ironclad before he was discovered. Casting off the cutter, he ordered his crew to attack the nearest picket post and he drove the launch under full head of steam straight at the Albemarle.

Under a storm of fire he pressed on until he struck the log boom, but as they were wet and slimy his little craft slid over them easily. By this time the launch had been shot almost to pieces but it was near enough for Cushing's purpose. He coolly swung a torpedo boom under the Albemarle and set off the charge. Then ordering his crew to look out for themselves he sprang into the river, swam under water as far as possible and escaped in the darkness. After wandering through a dense swamp he finally found a picket boat and was carried back to the fleet. Of the crew which accompanied him only one other escaped, the remainder being either drowned, killed or captured. The destruction of the Albemarle led to the capture of Plymouth and the surrounding country, so their sacrifice was not in vain.

Plenty of Time

They stood on the edge of a crowded platform on the Underground railway. It was obvious that the young man was very much in love with his pretty companion. As a matter of fact, he was pleading with her to marry him. The girl could not make up her mind. A train came in sight. The young man was desperate.

"If you won't listen to me I'll throw myself in front of the train that's just coming in," he cried. The girl was frightened.

"For goodness' sake, give me time to think," she said anxiously. "In any case, there'll be another train in a minute."—London Tit-Bits.

HAVE a watch—it really runs. It is my very own. It looks exactly like the kind you have when you are grown.

And if it runs a little fast,
Or if a little slow

To think my watch will go!

It's twice as big as Father's is.
I've had it not a week.

List of Prizes For Fall Flower Show Are Printed

Prizes to be offered at the Fall Flower Show to be sponsored by the Elks at their club, on September 9, 10, and 11th, cover a wide variety of flowers and decorated tables and insure a beautiful display.

As before, entries will be received on Friday morning between eight and twelve, the exhibits will be judged during the afternoon, and the show will be opened to the public at 7:00 P. M. Friday evening. The same nominal admission will be made.

Detailed Report 48th Reunion of Soldiers and Sailors Here

The 48th reunion of the Soldiers, Sailors and army nurses of the Civil War, 1861-65, of northern Illinois, was held in Dixon, August 23rd.

The meeting place was the G. A. R. hall, where the Commander of Post No. 299, George Richardson, met all comrades and welcomed them. There were fifteen comrades present, from Rock Island, Ashton, Oregon, Byron, Ambey, Rock Falls, and Dixon, and one from Denver, Colo. These comrades were happy to meet one another and enjoy reminiscences of bygone days.

Promptly at 12 o'clock a delightful dinner was served to all at the Christian church parlors, eighty-five being present, including the comrades and members of patriotic orders and friends. The repast was served by three allied orders, W. R. C. Ladies of G. A. R., and Daughters of Union Veterans.

The afternoon meeting was held in the auditorium of the Christian church, the meeting being called to order by the president, Mrs. Maude Hobbs. All officers were present, being Mrs. Maude Hobbs, president of Dixon; C. Altenderfer, Sterling, vice president Mrs. Nellie Eastman, secretary, Dixon; Miss R. Nash, treasurer, Oregon.

Mrs. Hobbs, requested that Dept. Commander Henry C. First be escorted to her station. He was escorted and introduced by Mrs. Marie B. Hietler, Past Dept. president and chairman of the courtesy committee, accompanied by four colorbearers, with Mrs. Elmer Rice at the piano, accompanied by her son, Master Jimmy Rice, on the drum.

The comrades of Post No. 299, and all visiting comrades were next escorted to the president's station and given the salute and then seated and then the ladies of the allied orders including the following were escorted to seats at the left of the president—Mrs. Burlingame, W. R. C. Dept. Pres., Mrs. Florence Onnen, Ladies G. A. R. Dept. Pres., Mrs. Lucy Eastman, president of Tent No. 81, and Dept. Pres. of D. U. V.

The national anthem was sung by all, led by Elmer Rice, with Mrs. Rice at the piano. The Salute to the Flag was then given followed by prayer by Comrade Charles Johnson of Dixon.

In a short address Mrs. Hobbs introduced Mayor George C. Dixon, who welcomed all visiting comrades to our city and also stated it was a pleasure to address this body of men who wore the blue and it is through them that today we have our liberty and justice and the American flag, and he hoped that all visitors may be spared to come to Dixon again and meet with the local Boys in Blue and allied orders.

Mrs. George Richardson, wife of Comrade Richardson, gave the address of welcome in behalf of the allied orders. The response was given by Mrs. Mary Baker of Sterling, who told of her visit to Fort Donaldson, National Cemetery, National Park, and Andersonville prison. She presented to the Dept. Commander Henry C. First, several bullets she picked up at Fort Donaldson.

All were then favored by two selections by the Auman orchestra, which were enjoyed, followed by the Flag drill by ten boys from the Methodist Sunday school, who gave an excellent drill and who sang

"The Flag, My Flag," and "America."

Rev. J. Franklin Young, pastor of the Presbyterian church, gave the principal address of the afternoon in which he eulogized the Civil War comrades, who were present, and the memory of those who have passed on. Rev. Young's very fine address will long remain with those who were present. The gathering was next led in singing by Elmer Rice, with Mrs. Rice at the piano, and Master Jimmie on the drums. "Marching Through Georgia," "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," and "Illinois," were the selections.

Eugene Lebré favored by a cornet solo, and a vocal solo, "Charlie Cadet."

The Department Commander, Henry C. First of Rock Island gave a very inspiring talk.

Mrs. Burlingame gave greetings for the Dept. president of the W. R. C. Mrs. Florence Onnen gave greetings for the Dept. president of the Ladies of the G. A. R. Mrs. Lucy Eastman gave greetings for the Dept. president of the D. U. V. Mrs. Nellie Eastman gave a tribute to the memories of deceased comrades, who were members of the Association and passed to the Beyond since the reunion of 1931.

Mrs. Lee Read then sang a selection.

The Soldiers and Sailors will hold their next meeting in Oregon, newly elected officers are—

WHISTLING COWS.

Out in the cow country of Nebraska, Dr. Peter Johanna Christiansen has perfected an invention which seems likely to prove a boon both to cow owners and alfalfa growers.

A cow's digestive tract is quite a complicated business, for a cow has four stomachs. But despite the extra equipment with which nature has endowed the cow, her eye is generally bigger than her four stomachs and the result is that bloating, often fatal, sometimes follows a hearty meal on alfalfa.

Now Dr. Christiansen has fixed it so that the cows can eat their alfalfa and have their health, too. By means of a perforated cylinder, fitted with a ball valve and spring, inserted into the cow's stomach, bloating is stopped before it starts. The alfalfa gas is allowed to escape—with a whistling sound—as rapidly as it forms. The thing works automatically, the valve opening when pressure reaches a given stage.

Farmers who have their sleep disturbed by the whistling will at least have the comfort of knowing that man has provided something for his cows which even nature forgot about, and that the "safety valve" is taking care of what might have been a very strenuous night for Bossy.

That the invention has infinite possibilities is obvious. By simply blending the notes of the various whistles in his herd, a farmer may have harmonious music to cheer him as he goes about his daily toil.

And when the first enterprising Nebraskan organizes the first genuine all-cow whistling choir, his fortune will be made.

CHILD PRODIGES.

Pamela Bianco who at 13 years of age exhibited paintings in London and now at 22 is a well-known artist, is the daughter of another "child prodigy." Her mother, Margery Williams Bianco, wrote five novels before she was 23, four of which were published. Mrs. Bianco is still a writer.

What makes this interesting is the fact that the world so rarely hears of child prodigies accomplishing anything at all after the period of youthful brilliance dims.

It is much commoner to hear of prodigies who once amazed their elders by unusual feats of intellect completely failing in later life to become adjusted to the business of normal living. Tragedies of child poets, child musicians and youngsters enrolled in colleges at 14 or 15 years frequently appear in the day's news. In fact most parents infinitely prefer that their children should show an ordinary aptitude for games, play and school work than for them to exhibit those unusual abilities which cause them to be labeled "prodigies." Youthful precociousness when it is so pronounced that youngsters attempt to compete with adults is regarded as a dangerous thing.

Now and then there may be exceptions to this rule but on the whole it is sound and proven doctrine. Childhood and the concerns of childhood are far too precious to be sacrificed for things which may just as well be left to later years.

WILL COTTON SHOW THE WAY?

One of the most hopeful signs on the economic horizon just now is the rising price of cotton, which has shown remarkable recuperative powers of late in the face of heavy selling from the south and heavy profit-taking from the speculators.

Just a few weeks ago, cotton sank to the 50-year low on the New York and New Orleans exchanges. Middling upland was selling at 5 cents per pound, or $25 per bale. That price means that the net to the cotton planter, after ginning and shipping charges have been paid, is around $15 per bale. Obviously, cotton could not be grown for such a low return. A few weeks later, it was bringing $40 per bale, or approximately $30 net to the planter.

On Aug. 24, cotton men figured that more than $170,000,000 had been added to the value of this year's crop by the increase in prices. This not only means that $170,000,000 has been added to the nation's buying power, but also that banks in the cotton section are in better condition, that interest on mortgages will be paid, that the outlook for the entire cotton section has been almost immeasurably brightened.

Cotton showed the way out of the depression of 1921. Is it too much to hope for the same thing in 1932?

The Ottawa conference has shown that the nations of the commonwealth (of British empire) are a solid entity. We have proved the solidarity in trade as well as sentiment.—Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada.

These so-called world economic conferences have been a failure and a waste of time and will continue to be until they get to the root of the evil.—Adolf Hitler, German Nazi leader.

I pledge myself that England will not get her money (for land annuities) until she proves her right to it.—Eamon de Valera, president, Irish Free State.

The handcar wasn't hard to run. In fact, the Tinies thought it fun. Said Duncy, "We are going fast. We'd best slow up a bit."

"If we all work too hard, you see, we'll get as tired as tired can be. Right now this is a dandy ride. 'Aw, you're just lazy,' Scouty cried. 'You're that way, lad, whenever we ride. Keep pumping now and do your share. We'll all rest after while.'

And then he added, "Wish I knew just where this funny track leads to. I get more curious as we move on, mile after mile."

Just then they reached a little turn and Copy cried, "Why don't you learn to keep your balance. Why, you nearly took a flop!"

"Hang to the bar and hang on tight. Then everything will be all right. If anybody tumbles off, we all will have to stop."

It wasn't very long until the ride had lost some of its thrill. Wee Windy started puffing and he said,

"I'll have to rest. 'I see a pump ahead, I think. Let's stop by it and get a drink. Then I'll get right back on again and do my very best.'

The others didn't argue. They were glad to pass some time away just loafing, so they stopped the car and all jumped to the ground. In 'bout an hour brave Scouty cried, "Come on, let's get back to our ride. I'm anxious to move onward, though we don't know where we're bound."

So, on they crawled and once more pumped. Then suddenly the small car jumped right down between two big, high banks, yet stayed upon the track.

The Tinies managed to hold tight, although it gave them quite a fright. Said Duncy, "Gee, that jerked me. Why, I thought I'd break my back."

(The Tinies get out of their fix in the next story.)

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — Another amendment to the Constitution of the United States—the 20th—is now in the process of being ratified by the various states. If 36 states give their approval (15 have at present) then the so-called "lame duck" sessions of Congress are a thing of the past.

About everybody knows that there have been 18 amendments to the Constitution. Enough has been heard about that eighteenth one. Almost everybody, especially the women, know that there have been 19 changes. No. 19 is a great day for the women.

But beyond those two, few people except students of constitutional history and the like know very much about the changes which have been made.

For example, a lot was heard during the last session of Congress on the question of cutting the salaries of senators and congressmen. It's a pretty safe bet that some of the members of Congress don't know that there is a constitutional amendment now pending touching on the subject.

Five Never Ratified
It's one of the five amendments submitted to the states which were never ratified (the "lame duck" amendment excepted). It forbade Congress to raise its own pay without one house election intervening after passage of the act before it became effective.

It was submitted in 1789 and the approval of 11 states was necessary. Six states voted yes, five voted no, and three didn't vote at all. Could the "no" states change their minds now if they so desired?

In the opinion of some students of the subject, these five amendments are dead, though still, presumably pending before the various state legislatures. They believe the supreme court would so hold were the matter ever brought to a test, on the theory that some sort of statute of limitations runs against proposed amendments even where no specific clause to that effect is incorporated.

A time limit of seven years was placed against the 18th amendment for ratification. A similar limit holds with the "lame duck" proposal.

An Odd Amendment
A glance at these five unratified amendments discloses another curious one — probably the most peculiar constitutional proposal ever made.

It was submitted on March 2, 1861, just two days before Lincoln's inauguration. It proposed to forbid any amendment to the Constitution which would authorize Congress to abolish slavery. Twenty-five states were needed for ratification, for by that time the country had grown.

But only three ever acted, and those favorably. They were Ohio, Maryland, and, strangely enough, Illinois, the state which gave the Great Emancipator to the nation.

A BOOK A DAY

SIMPLE MURDER LED TO FALL OF BOURBON KINGS

"Lucile Clerly—Woman of Intrigue," by Joseph Shearing, is a book for those who like their murder with fancy trimmings.

It is a sort of cross between novel and biography. Back in the '40s of the last century, it seems, a French nobleman killed his wife, and the resulting scandal helped knock out the Bourbon dynasty and brought Napoleon III to the throne of France. And if you don't see how a mere murder case could do all of that, I can only say that you don't know the French.

Proud Boy Sees Nation Honor Dad

There's reason for the proud look on the face of young Frank Jones (extreme right). For there he was in Washington—right on the White House lawn—as his very own dad was being presented with the Congressional Medal of Honor by none other than President Hoover. The decoration was Commander Claude A. Jones' reward for a heroic act of 16 years before when, as an officer aboard the U. S. S. Memphis, he rushed to the rescue of several stricken seamen during an explosion of boilers and steam pipes below deck. At the left is Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and, beside him, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke.

throne of France. And if you don't see how a mere murder case could do all of that, I can only say that you don't know the French. Anyway, this book makes the nobleman's sweetie, Lucile Clerly, its central figure. Lucile is a charmingly hard-boiled little lady who wants to rise in the world and doesn't care much how she does it. She becomes a governess in the nobleman's home, and immediately a cures both the desire of the nobleman and the enmity of his equally noble wife.

The nobleman, unfortunately, has to play his cards carefully because all of the money in the family is in his wife's name; and Lucile has to play hers carefully because she doesn't want to get thrown out on her ear. And so one thing leads to another until the nobleman finally stabs his wife to death, and Lucile, after defeating the efforts of the police to prove that she was an accessory, makes the acquaintance of a pure young American who happens to be visiting in Paris, marries him, and winds up in the U. S. A. as the wife of a clergyman.

"Lucile Clerly" is nicely written, but somehow it's not quite as exciting as you expect it will be.

Frisco's New Water System Takes Toll

Livermore, Calif., Aug. 29 — (AP)—The cost in lives of the Hetch-Hetchy project, San Francisco's new water supply system, mounted as rescue crews struggled through mud and rock which trapped five workers in the coast range tunnel last night.

Abandoning all hope of finding any of the men alive, rescue leaders placed the project toll at 94 lives. They retracted previous announcements four bodies had been recovered today and asked only one, tentatively identified as that of Chester Simonsen, 30, had been found.

DAILY HEALTH

DUODENAL ULCERS—I
The duodenum is a section of the small intestine immediately connected with the stomach.

Into it empty two important digestive glands, namely, the pancreas or, as it is commonly termed, the sweetbread, and the liver. The stomach, of course, enters into the duodenum.
The duodenum is subject to the formation of ulcers and this condition, which is both painful and disturbing to the function of digestion, has puzzled medicine for many years.

We do not as yet know what produces these ulcers, nor do we know how to prevent them. The origin of duodenal ulcers has been the subject of much speculation.
Focal infection, constitutional pre-disposition and constitutional diseases, have been thought of and studied as possible causes of duodenal ulcers but these studies have led to no final results.

Medical, diet and surgical treatment, have, however, been devised for this condition and frequently are very effective.

We have long suspected that a something in the cycle of the digestive process may have a bearing upon the formation of duodenal ulcers. Recently certain experiments have been reported which throw light on the problem.

During the digestive process the food contents of the stomach are acid in reaction. When they enter the small intestine, however, they become alkaline.

This change in reaction is affected by the admixture of the secretions of the pancreas and the liver with the acid products of digestion that enter the intestines from the stomach.

Recently the problem as to what happens to the gastro-intestinal tract when the acid-reacting substance from the stomach enters the duodenum and does not fully alkalize has been formulated and studied.

Tomorrow—Duodenal Ulcers—II

Five Thousand Kinds of Light Are On Exhibition

Chicago, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Five thousand different kinds of light—green ones, red ones, white ones, and one that would give you a severe sunburn in 10 minutes—went on display today at the Chicago Lighting Institute.

There even is lighting effect to change the tint of your living room walls, and make them match the hostess' gown. There's an ice box in which a light turns on when the door is opened, thus facilitating midnight lunches. And if you don't like burglars, there's a light to keep them out.

Sponsored by 13 lighting and electrical companies, the institute is intended to "educate the public into using light intelligently." Teachers demonstrate to scores of classes daily the proper ways of lighting factories, offices, homes, and school rooms.

So marked have been the advances in lighting effects, officials of the institute demonstrated today, that any kind of light—the flames in a fireplace, the rays of the sun, or the flash of lightning—can be reproduced almost perfectly.

For the store owner, there's a "special device for the display window lights. It prevents the prospective customer from seeing his reflection in the window. Therefore he looks at the merchandise on display instead of at himself.

As for the "electric eye" a device which registers every obstacle that passes across a ray of light, there are a score of uses demonstrated. It is made to open a grocery store door for a prospective customer, turn on the lights in a room when a person enters, and sound an alarm when a burglar or prowler approaches.

PASTOR-FATHER OF SLAIN GIRL SEEKS REVENGE

Says He Would Like To Electrocute Marshall
Teacher

Marshall, Ill., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Hubert C. Moor, 31-year-old Robinson, Ill., high school teacher, reported by officials to have confessed the slaying of his wife, Marjorie, 32, was being kept under constant guard in his cell today to prevent any possible attempt at suicide.

The teacher was said by Sheriff James Turner to have become morose and sullen since confessing the slaying which he blamed on "unwashed dishes."

The Rev. A. E. Wrentham, pastor of a Christian church at Indianapolis and father of Mrs. Moor, visited county authorities yesterday in efforts to aid prosecution of his son-in-law. The preacher who expressed his confidence in Moor immediately after the slaying, August 14, told the Sheriff that he now believed, in view of the confession, that "the electric chair is too good for him."

"I'd like to turn on the current myself," the Sheriff quoted the preacher, who is the candidate of the prohibition party for state Senator in his home district, as saying. The Rev. Wrentham was accompanied here by his wife, but neither was permitted to talk with Moor.

Parents See Attorney
Moor's parents yesterday conferred with an attorney about his defense but no announcement has been made.

Moor complained in his confession, the Sheriff said, that his wife also a school teacher, failed to keep house as he thought she should and spent too much of her time in women's club work and other activities outside the home.

An inferiority complex was blamed by the Sheriff for the slaying. He told me "Sheriff Turner said 'that he didn't find small town life congenial, while his wife always took an active part in social affairs. We have discovered too, that Mrs. Moor interceded for him once and prevented him from losing his position as a public school teacher at Robinson. This probably irritated him and made him feel inferior to her."

Mrs. Moor was killed in an automobile belonging to her husband as they were returning to their home at night from Indiana. Moor appeared at a farm house and related a tale of having been held up and slugged by hi-jackers who shot his wife. He was kept in jail while the story was investigated and confessed. Sunday after, he said, he found he could no longer stand seeing visions of his wife's face both while awake and asleep.

LaSalle Paper Compliments Former
Dixon Attorney

Accompanying pictures of Lloyd Scriven, formerly of Dixon, now State's Attorney of Putnam county, and Sheriff Milledge Thomas of the same county, the LaSalle Tribune last night said:

Conditions at the Mark mine were quiet today and the two officials pictured above, Sheriff Milledge Thomas of Hennepin and State's Attorney Lloyd Scriven of Granville, can feel pretty good. Last week their county was overrun by hundreds of miners' pickets from further south. That a clash was averted can be attributed to the cool-headedness of the officials who took the stand that so long as the men were peaceful, no attempt would be made to oust them. However, if trouble does develop in the future the officers will be on hand to see that Mark miners are given protection if they desire it.

NORMAN R. HAMILTON, PUBLISHER OF THE PORTSMOUTH (Vt.) STAR, SAYS:

THAT now, more so than in many years, newspapers are finding it necessary to fight harder for every dollar of their revenue, and are getting less in return for their efforts than in any year of their existence. People as a whole, and particularly many large users of newspaper advertising space, seem to think that a newspaper is something like a perpetually endowed institution and operates on an inexhaustible fund regardless of whether or not local firms patronize it with their advertising space.

Newspapers are finding that competitive agencies, particularly the radio, are cutting into their revenue to a very great extent, so great, in fact, that many of them are finding it necessary to cut out the publication of all free radio broadcast programs, all of which is merely giving to a competitive advertising medium free advertising space, and the funny part of it is that the merchant who buys space from newspapers and decides to use the radio instead is the one who kicks the hardest when the newspapers discontinue the giving of free space to a competitive medium.

AND ANOTHER THING, newspapers are being bombarded by advertisers, large and small, for a reduction in their rate. They come to the newspaper and say, "We've got a depression story to tell you. Times are tight, and we've just got to get a reduction in our advertising rate or we will have to discontinue using your newspaper." Now isn't that a fine club to hold over the head of any publisher? These same advertisers who are trying to make the newspaper absorb a major portion of their excessive overhead forget that this depression is not going to last forever and that some day they will need the newspaper again. Yet, in the meantime, they are perfectly willing to sandbag them now demanding rate decreases, little knowing that they are weakening the very agency they will have to depend upon later to help them return to normalcy.

This is no time for advertisers to be making demands upon newspapers for rate decreases and this is no time for newspapers to be giving concessions along that line. If the newspapers are to keep going and maintain their prestige, they must keep turning out just as good a newspaper as they ever did, and that can't be done on decreased revenues. When the tide turns, as it soon will, firms will be looking to the newspapers to act, as they always have in times of stress, the medium for bringing back prosperity. MY ADVICE TO ADVERTISERS IS "DON'T KILL THE GOOSE THAT LAYS THE GOLDEN EGGS—FOR THE ADVERTISERS!"

Another Big Week On At Assembly Pk.

Last night marked the opening night of another big week in the Paul Rader tabernacle in Assembly Park. Rev. A. A. Smith, from Tampa, Fla., preached a "get together and get acquainted" message which was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Smith laid all ceremony and plunged into a lively song service. Just before Rev. Smith delivered his message, the "three Gospel Musical Messengers" made a beautiful appearance as a result of car trouble. They did not have time to unpack their many instruments which was almost a carload in themselves, but entertained the audience with several vocal selections.

Beginning at 7:45 tonight, these nationally known musical messengers will give a musical sacred concert until 8:15 after which Rev. Smith will deliver a message on an unnamed subject.

The public is courteously urged to attend these meetings. Rev. Smith and his party have come to Dixon directly from Paul Rader's Conference grounds at Lake Har-

FERTILIZING OF WHEAT IS STILL SHOWING PROFIT

Growers Report An Average Increase Of Nine Bushels

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—Some time ago more than 8,400 wheat growers in the middlewestern and eastern states reported to the National Fertilizer Association that the use of an average of 190 pounds of fertilizer per acre resulted in an increase of 9 bushels of wheat. At the prevailing prices of wheat and fertilizer at that time there was a return of $2.76 for each dollar expended for the fertilizer. With wheat at 50 cents a bushel and fertilizer at present prices, the return for each dollar expended is about $2.25, not counting the increase in price due to improvement in quality which is by no means an unimportant item.

In the middlewestern states east of the Mississippi where wheat is customarily fertilized, the farmers are now getting 40 to 50 cents per bushel. Even at this low price, fertilizer will still pay nearly two dollars for one on the average, and in many cases the increased yield and improvement in quality make it an even better investment. Moreover, every farmer knows that when he fertilizes his wheat this fall he will also be fertilizing his clover crop of year after next. He also knows that the increased yield of hay will just about pay for the fertilizer used on wheat and that the increased yield of wheat is therefore almost clear profit.

In the eastern states the farm price of wheat is 10 to 20 cents higher than in the middlewestern and fertilizer, due to lower freight rates, is somewhat cheaper. The profit per acre is therefore, somewhat higher than in the middlewestern, and for this reason eastern farmers use about 50 per cent more fertilizer than middlewestern farmers.

Experiments conducted by practically every experiment station in the wheat growing states confirm the above figures which were furnished by farmers. In fact, many experiments have shown larger returns from fertilizer than the farmers' estimates. For example, the 25-year average increase at Wooster, Ohio was 13.6 bushels per acre; the 35-year average increase at State College, Pa. was 12 bushels; and in Illinois the increase from bone meal was 12.4 bushels. In Indiana average increases up to 12 bushels were obtained; at the New York Station the increase in one experiment was nearly 20 bushels, and in Delaware the increase for a complete fertilizer has averaged 18 bushels. In all of these experiments the improvement was pronounced.

The use of fertilizer is good crop insurance, especially in those years when Hessian fly injury or winter killing is severe. Seeded wheat can still make a good fine growth before winter. It develops a heavy root system which is necessary for proper stooling and vigorous growth in the spring.

Finally, each bushel added to the acre-yield cuts down the overhead cost per bushel, and if the use of fertilizer will add from 6 to 10 bushels to the yield at a cost of 20 to 25 cents per bushel, the reduced cost of the entire crop is reduced accordingly. Certainly the best way out for the middlewestern and the eastern wheat grower is to produce a high yield per acre at a low cost per bushel even if fewer acres must be grown.

What This Farm Strike Is All About—No. 2

FARM STRIKE PICKET LINE AT NIGHT AFFORDS WEIRD SCENE

Grimness and Gayety Mix as Men in Overalls Quit Shadows To Turn Back Trucks

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second in a series of five by Bruce Catton, staff writer for NEA Service and The Evening Telegraph, who was sent to the Midwest corn belt to find out what the farm strike is all about.

By BRUCE CATTON
Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 30.—The picket lines of the striking Iowa farmers present an interesting, unforgettable picture at night—a weird picture of half lights and deep shadows, with hard-handed grimness lying beneath a veneer of gay humor.

The picket lines, of course, were established to keep farm produce from being moved to the markets until a higher price has been obtained.

In the Sioux City area where the strike originated, the lines are just about air tight. It is not exaggerating to say that a regiment of regulars could hardly keep truck loads of livestock and other produce from entering the city any more efficiently than the farmers have been doing it.

There are six main roads that are being picketed—three on the Iowa side of the Missouri River, and three on the Nebraska side. There are never less than 40 or 50 pickets on each road. Sometimes each post has as many as 200 on duty.

At night, when you approach one of these posts, going toward Sioux City, you find a military air about things—a military air which, at the same time, is coupled with a strange informality. The men are all dressed alike—blue overalls and shirts, battered hats of felt or straw, heavy boots. They lounge about carelessly, chatting quietly, presenting a stony front to strangers, and watching every car that passes with exceeding care.

The first thing you encounter is an outpost or two, three or four men. They will be standing or sitting beside a huge sign, illuminated by an oil lantern, which says, "STOP! Farmers Holiday Association."

When the headlights of a car appear down the road the men become tense and watchful. As the car's headlights pick them out they stand up, looking forward. It is a pleasure car they let it pass—looking carefully, however, to see if farm produce happens to be loaded in the back seat. If it is a truck, they signal it to stop.

Usually the truck stops. A couple of the men spring up on it and inspect its interior. If it is empty, or if it contains "non-commerical goods" they let it go on. If it contains livestock, poultry, eggs or grain they order it to turn back. The driver, if he is wise, obeys without a murmur.

Sometimes, of course, the truck does not stop. Then the men in the outpost signal, with a red lantern, to the main body, a hundred yards down the road. The main body emerges from the shadows in a fever of activity. Big logs, railroad ties and beams are tossed across the road.

That usually persuades the driver to stop. If he tries to go on through, he is apt to explode a tire or two or break a spring; even if none of these things happen, his speed is certain to be cut down enough so that the men can climb up on his truck—and the result is the same.

A three-man outpost of the farmers' "army" is pictured above, guarding a highway near Sioux City and ready to challenge any truck bearing produce to market. When these fellows say "Halt!" they really mean it, for a few hundred yards down the road are farmers ready to toss cross ties, logs and spiked boards into the path of any vehicle whose driver fails to obey the command. Below are two weary pickets who have just gone off duty, catching a little sleep in a nearby hay stack. The map shows the area around Sioux City in which the farm strike began and from which it spread.

Circulate about among the pickets and you will find them telling of incidents in which recalcitrant truck drivers were made to stop.

"There was a fellow tried to get through this afternoon," says one man, a blue shadow in the black night. He just stepped on the gas when he threw down the railroad ties. He lost three tires, broke his front axle and busted his radiator, and was he mad!"

"What was he carrying?" "Oh, he wasn't carrying anything. His truck was empty. He just wanted to show us he didn't have to stop."

There are chuckles. Someone murmurs, "He showed us all right." Another man tells a similar tale.

"There was a man and his wife in a little light truck tried to get by with a load of poultry this morning. He wasn't going to stop, either, until he started running over the ties. It liked to jolt him right out of his shoes. His woman hollered as if she was being killed."

Two big trucks loaded with hogs came up out of the night, and are halted by the outpost. The drivers lean out as the situation is explained to them. They have driven 65 miles; will have to cart their hogs 65 more miles if they turn back. They peer down the road to where the main body, its attention caught, stirs restlessly. The hogs grunt plaintively. They are getting relieved from the runways in the Sioux City stockyards if they only knew it. The drivers accept fate, turn about, start for home.

One of the organizers of the strike tells you that being in charge of the picket lines isn't an easy job.

"You've got to keep up their enthusiasm," he says, "but you've got to keep it within bounds, too. This isn't a lark. It's serious business. We don't want any trouble, but we are going to do what we're out here to do. Keeping the boys keyed up without getting 'em keyed up so high that they get into fights with the truck drivers is not such an easy job."

A grinning devil-tanned young picket complains that most of the producers and shippers in this part of the corn belt have given up trying to move goods to Sioux City by trucks.

"Shucks," he says, "when no trucks come along it ain't exciting."

"A little group of older men moved over to the reporter as he starts away.

"Now then," they say, "be sure you give us a good write-up and make folks understand that we're out here to stick, because we are fighting for our rights and we are going to get 'em. It isn't only ourselves we are fighting for. We are fighting for all America, because the wealth of the nation comes from the farms, and when the farmer is broke the whole nation is in trouble."

W. F. PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

The egg season for 1932—and by that I mean eggs produced from hens carried over from last year—is nearing its close. The important thing at the present time is the 1932 chicken crop. You are naturally wondering what the prospective markets will be. One of the reasons, no doubt, is that last year from August 15th to November 1st there was a decline of 5 cents to 7 cents in paying prices in the country, due to lower markets.

My opinion is that we need not fear any lower markets on these spring chickens that are now growing, say birds from 2 to 3½ pounds. There may be a slight decline in the larger sizes, but not a great deal, in my opinion. I consider the situation hopeful and encouraging for the following reasons:

There is just as much competition in foods as there is in any other kind of business. Our competitors are principally meat products. Take beef, for instance; the wholesale market on good cattle is higher than it was last year, and the cuts of meat that go on the table are considerably higher than last year. The same applies to lamb. While hogs are considerably lower than last year, this is due to the fact that lard is very cheap, but here again the cuts that go on the consumer's table, such as chops and roasts, are not much lower than last year.

So I want to go on record as saying that we need not expect much, or any lower prices on chickens. The old hens are unusually high, everything considered, which indicates a good consumption.

Regarding these old hens, they will soon begin to molt, and when they do, they decrease in weight and look undesirable. I recommend that you watch them very closely and when you see that they stop laying, sell them before the molting starts. You will get more money and make room for the other birds coming on.

Last February when you are making plans for this year's poultry production, I went on record as saying that in my judgment the poultry and egg department on the farm could be the most profitable, providing, of course, you have the proper equipment and the intelligence to make good use of the same.

I am quite sure you agree with me that I have been right, and I am particularly pleased with the prospective poultry markets for the bulk of this year's hatch.

Sincerely yours,

W. F. Priebe

Farming Factors

CULLING By Prof. H. D. Munroe

There is a tendency among the poultrymen and farmers to become careless about the management of their poultry flock during the summer when egg prices are low. It is at this time that the greatest care should be taken.

Management problems that effect summer egg production are lice and mites, mash consumption and culling.

Even with low egg prices it is possible to have a profit on a flock if egg production is maintained above fifty per cent. Heavy production can be maintained during the summer only by culling.

Summer culling is a very simple process. It can be done most conveniently at night. Once a week the careful poultryman should look over his flock of layers and remove and sell any hen that has stopped laying. With Lechorn flocks this can be done at night, using a flashlight. Any hen with a dry, shrunken comb should be removed from the flock. In the morning go over these birds more carefully and sell all that have stopped laying.

With the heavy breeds there are several points that will help in night culling. Birds that have little or no feed in their crops should be removed. Probably the best way to handle a flock of heavy breeds is to mark each hen when she goes broody with a colored leg band. The second or third time that she goes broody sell her.

A flock of laying hens in good production is profitable under present conditions.

4-H Clubs Share NBC Farm Hour

Chicago, Aug. 30.—During the height of the harvest season for the home garden, representatives of the 4-H Club boys who have grown home gardens, and of the 4-H Club girls, who are canning the products of those gardens, will tell what a club member thinks about during the gardening and canning season. They will be heard in the National 4-H Club program of the National Farm and Home Hour over an NBC-WJZ coast-to-coast network on Saturday, Sept. 3 at 1:30 P. M., E. D. S. T.

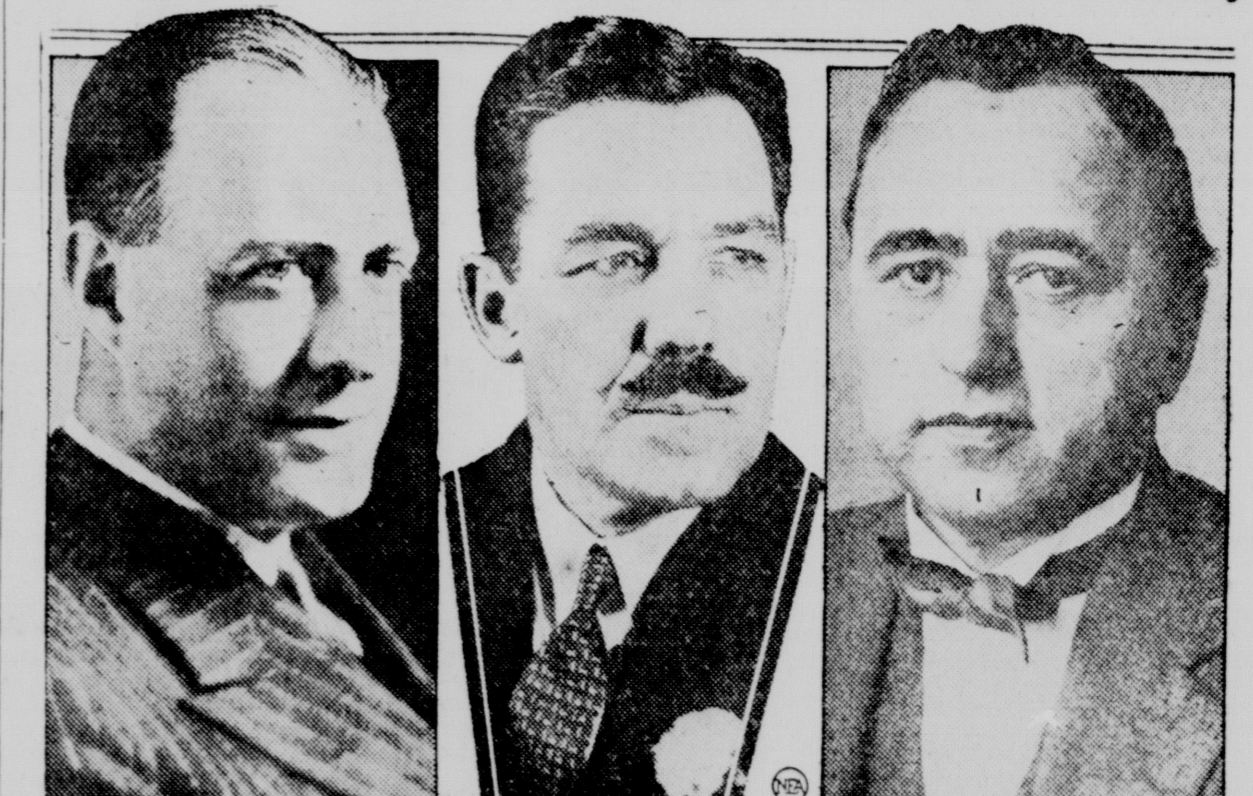

Alfred Hallenbeck of Greene County, New York, and Dorothy Murphy of Suix County, Delaware, will be the 4-H Club speakers.

Devise Capital-Labor Plan to Speed Business Recovery

These men have taken what is described as "the first definite step to bring about joint action by business and labor in a plan for economic recovery." Left to right they are Lee Bristol, president of the Association of National Advertisers, Grover A. Whalen, president of the Advertising Club of New York, and Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor. They have approved a seven-point program calling for establishment of the six-hour day and five-day week wherever possible in industry, revision of the anti-trust laws, repeal of prohibition, an increased program for public and semi-public works, a broader base of taxation as a fairer means of distributing the burden, reduction in cost of government by reorganization, and a closer cooperation of business and labor in working out their common problem. A national congress of capital and labor is to be called in October to devise means of putting the program into effect.

SENATORS MAKE EFFORT TO SAVE JOB FOR WALTER

"Big Train" Is In Danger Of Being Out Of Managership

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Having gotten wind, perhaps, of the rumor that their manager is in acute danger of losing his job at the close of the current race, the Washington Senators have started a belated drive that promises to do Walter Johnson a lot of good.

In winning 11 of their last 14 games, the Senators at least have gained a re-hearing for the "Big Train," and if they sustain that clip up to the last day it is doubtful owner Clark Griffith would give further thought to a change of pilots.

Up to the time they began their onslaught on the western clubs, the Senators had made a disappointing race of it. Picked to finish at or near the top, they barely were clinging to the first division a fortnight ago. Those on the inside confidently predicted Bucky Harris would be back next season to manage the club he led to two flags and one world championship. Right now, however, it looks like Harris will remain at Detroit.

By defeating the St. Louis Browns yesterday, 7 to 6, in 13 innings while Philadelphia was dividing a doubleheader with Detroit, the Senators climbed within five and a half games of second place. If they catch the A's and land the runner-up berth, Johnson will need to make no apologies when contract time rolls around.

Singles by West and Kerr and Marple's sacrifice fly gave the Senators the winning run in yesterday's long contest, their second 13-inning victory within a week. Walt Stewart went the route for the Browns while three moundsmen worked for the winners with Bill McAfee eventually receiving credit for the triumph.

The Yankees stepped a little further ahead of the field by trimming Chicago twice, 10 to 3 and 4 to 3. Lefty Gomez breezed to his 22nd victory in the first game, but Charley Ruffing had a close scrape before chalking up No. 16 in the nightcap. Red Kress' homer with one on in the eighth came within a run of tying the count.

Hayworth's First Error
The Athletics staged a six-run rally in the eighth round to beat Detroit in the first, 8 to 3, but the Tigers came back to win the second, 10 to 7, with a three-run outburst in the ninth. Ray Hayworth, Detroit catcher, made his first error of the season in the second game.

Although they made only five hits off Rhodes and McNaughton, the Cleveland Indians cashed in on 12 passes to defeat the Boston Red Sox, 6 to 3. Earl Averill drew five free trips.

National League turnstiles were idle for the day. Only one game was scheduled, between Boston and Pittsburgh, and that was erased by wet grounds.

DUDES TAKE HOT GAME FROM WINK SPECIALS, 2 TO 1

City Championship Series Continued During This Week

Bunching hits in the first half of the seventh inning, the City Dudes tightened their grasp on the soft ball championship last evening before a 2 to 1 in the tightest played game of the series. Fordham was invincible up to the seventh as was Segner, each having allowed but five hits which had been kept well scattered.

In the opening inning O'Malley and Rink both led off with infield singles when Manager "Wink" McReynolds put the planter on the Dudes scoring possibilities by a brilliant play. Running toward second he stabbed a hot line drive off Kuhn's bat in one hand and then was able to tag Rink who had led off first thinking that the blow was labelled for a hit, completing a double play unassisted.

The Specials were the first to score in the last half of the sixth frame. Strong was safe at first when "Shires" Miller uncorked a wild heave of an easy grounded ball, tossing to O'Malley at first. McReynolds sent a short fly into left which failed to advance the runner. Clyde Daniels sent a single into center field, sending Strong to second. Hunt fouled out to Rink at the plate and Ted Ryan belted a hot liner into right field for a single. Strong scoring from second. Collins lifted the third out to right field.

The Dudes came back all set for revenge in the opening half of the seventh. Kuhn scratched one into center for a single and "Shires" Miller whiffed the air three times for a strikeout. Cortright selected one to his liking and sent it into deep center scoring Kuhn and Corty stopped at third when the play was made at the plate. Eddie Carlson lifted one to left field on which Cortright scored easily from third and Hilliker was out on a pop up to McReynolds at second. The fall end of the Specials batting order failed in an attempt to stage a final inning rally in the half of the seventh. The score:

Performing Elephants With Downie Bros.

A herd ranging from the largest to the smallest performing elephants on earth are another outstanding feature with Downie Bros. Circus. When the big show comes here Monday for afternoon and night performances on the Echoll ball park, this group of well trained pachyderms will be put through some unusual and pleasing paces by their trainer, Miss Ella Harris, pictured above with a part of her charges.

A circus program which includes aerialists, acrobats, gymnasts, performing ponies and thirty dancing horses, as well as a whole army of clowns and all the acts that go to make up a circus is what Manager Charles Sparks, the popular veteran no win charge, is offering for the 1932 tour of the show.

A street parade over a mile in length and with all of the dazzling features of the old, combined with the improvements of the new; this feature said to be the longest of its kind in the world, will leave the show grounds at 11:45 A. M. The Hanford family of riders, world known for their skill and daring, featuring George the incomparable riding comedian and a personal appearance of Buck Owens, movie cowboy, with his entire Hollywood company are two outstanding features.

Hooks and Slides

ABOUT THIS AND THAT By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

Joe McCarthy is about to become the only manager ever to win a pennant in each of the major leagues.

The reason Ernie Orsatti got a chance to become a star for the Cardinals was the fact that Chick Hafey was traded to Cincinnati. Last fall Orsatti asked to be traded himself, explaining that he was gradually "going nuts" sitting on the bench watching the men play ball.

When Charlie Jameson left the Indians recently, voluntarily retiring because of illness, he left the club without a left-handed thrower of any kind. By the way that's a record, and has it occurred to you that it's a record that can not be beaten?

WHO'LL PREACH IT—

Joe Walcott, the Barbadoes Demon of other days, was admitted to a psychopathic ward the other day, broken physically, financially and mentally. There's a chance for some sort of sermon in that for somebody.

Babe Ruth has gone in for contract bridge, and in the same great big way in which he goes in for, well—whatever he goes in for. Thus, when the Babe can't get enough folks together for a game, he plays a two handed game of his own invention.

Nab Rucker is the name of the Brooklyn scout who is responsible for the presence of Van Lingle Mungo in a Brooklyn uniform. And, if you don't think Van Lingle Mungo is worth the $2,000 Brooklyn paid for him, your name is not Max Carey.

Charley Ruffing's nickname happens to be Big Red, and the reasons for that are because he is big and has red hair (how queer!) Tim Mara, the gent who sued Gene Tunney for a lot of money, lost nearly five grand promoting the McLarnin-Bouillard fight. But he still has enough scratch to get along with, and to place a couple of bucks here and there on the horses.

THE NAME IS BILL—

Two people named Bill happen

Do You Remember

One Year Ago Today—Four Chicago pitchers gave Detroit 12 bases on balls and 10 hits and five other White Sox players committed eight errors in the field, yet the pale Hose downed the Tigers 10 to 8, in a 12-inning game of "clowns."

Five Years Ago Today—Miss Helen Willis of California, holder of the Wimbledon women's tennis championship, regained her U. S. singles title by defeating Betty Nuthall of England, 6-1, 6-4 in the finals at Forest Hills.

Ten Years Ago Today—Promoter Tex Rickard began negotiations with the owners of the New York Yankees to obtain use of the Yankee stadium, still under construction for boxing bouts.

Landis Present At Junior Tournament

Manchester, N. H., Aug. 30—(AP)—Manchester became a "big league" baseball city today with 10,000 fans and the national pastime's notables prepared to witness a struggle between the east and the west in the American Legion junior "little world's series."

When Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis tosses out the first ball the New Orleans "Pa-pooses," champions of the west, and Springfield, Mass., titlists in the east, will be started on their quest for the 1932 junior pennant. Both teams expressed confidence

Terrors Challenge Winner Of Series

The Risley's Terrors soft ball team today issued a challenge to the winners of the city championships series now being played. The Terrors have not been affiliated with either of the soft ball leagues caring the summer season but have played games with many of the teams competing at their field east of the city on the River road.

The proceeds from the special series is to be donated to a city fund it was stated today by the Terror management in announcing the challenge. Three games are to be played at the independent field for the city championship.

Clowns Met Defeat At Terrors' Hands

Risley's Terrors scored a 15 to 7 victory over the Clowns last evening at the former's field east of the city. Bunched hits with errors in the fifth inning sent seven runs across the platter for the Terrors who had been trailing up to that time. Boyd Stewart's cross fire pitching could not be solved by the Clowns.

LAUDS MAIL PILOTS

Glorification of the U. S. Air Mail pilots coming from none other than Maj. Gen. James E. Fehet, U. S. Army (retired), is quite a feather in their caps. Says Maj. Gen. Fehet: "No set of men sail the skies today who have had more experience, or possess greater skill, than that gallant group which daily streaks with the air mail across our skies. This is a tremendous potential war reserve which our military leaders will be quick to utilize in the next national emergency."

EXPECT RECORD CROWD OF FANS AT "THE MAPLES"

Last Week's Postponed Ring Show Will Be Held Thursday

THURSDAY'S CARD
Bill Davis, Dixon vs Cliff McKeel, Peoria 147 pounds.
Scuvvy Scanlino, Marseilles vs Kenny Jackson, Peoria 118 pounds.
George Carlson, Dixon vs Tuffy Wilson, Peoria 118 pounds.
Eddie Carlson Dixon vs Al Yeager Peoria 136 pounds.
Ralph Rafferta St. David vs Frank Ladd, Lewiston 136 pounds.
Clyde Deshaune, St. David vs Red Bender, Carton 126 pounds.

After last week's postponement the local Athletic club is planning on a great crowd to witness the entertainment Thursday at the Crawford Maples' arena. The above card has four fights bringing together eight good boys in the ring with the last two bouts of the evening seeing four popular and able scrappers.

Bill Davis again is in the feature meeting Cliff McKeel of Peoria. Davis still is going strong in this vicinity and just recently marked up victory number two over Peoria's Johnny Becker. McKeel has appeared on a Maples' lineup before. Three weeks ago when a team of Rockford boys formed one-half of the program McKeel punched out a decisive win over Julius Denny of Rockford. McKeel is a tough scrapper and will give the Dixon star a stiff argument.

In the Chicago Tribune tournament two years ago Scuvvy Scanlino lost in the early stages to Leo Rodak, champion, and later captain of the 1932 team. Kenny Jackson went to the finals of the meet but finally took a trimming. Scanlino is a small youth but possesses a terrific punch with either hand. He is the only fighter to win over Dixon's hero of the 118 pound class, George Carlson. Jackson is no stranger to fans in this section having fought Joe Chevior in one of the shows. Kenny showed the ability and power of a champion together with a clever bit of boxing. This alone will be worth the price of admission.

George Carlson fights Tuffy Wilson in his third entry of the summer. Eddie Carlson makes another start fighting Al Yeager of Peoria. In the openers Ralph Rafferta, St. David meet; Frank Ladd, Lewiston and Clyde Deshaune, St. David fights Red Bender of Canton.

The United Cigar Store and Highway Cafe are headquarters for reserved seats or they can be secured Thursday at the box office.

Annual Caddies' Tourney Monday

The second annual caddies tournament of 18 holes, medal scores, was played yesterday at the Dixon Country Club, with caddies from Plum Hollow and the Dixon Country Club competing. The contest was close, some eight ties having to be played off.

The beautiful cup trophy, donated by Miss M. J. Peterson in 1931, was won by Francis Henry in a three-way tie play-off, with Robert Meyers runner-up. Low putts prize was won by D. Mosher nearest score card award went to Stanley Krahler; while all of the other 38 players taking part received prizes of various kinds.

Following the tournament the boys enjoyed a banquet at the club house, during which the prizes were distributed and then the boys were guests of L. G. Rorer at the Dixon theater.

The prizes were given by members of both clubs and were much appreciated by the caddies. The surprise of the tournament was G. Reis, who was in a playoff for low medal, and who finished with the leaders.

Franklin Grovers Enter Tournament

Manager C. B. Tompkins of the Franklin Grove soft ball team is among the first to enter his team in competition for the Lee county championship tournament which has been announced. Other teams planning to enter are requested to forward their applications to the sporting editor of the Dixon Telegraph. No entrance fee will be charged.

Due to decreased air pressure the gas in a dirigible continues to expand as the ship rises until finally it becomes necessary to valve off some of the surplus gas. Helium gas was first recognized in the sun during a total eclipse in 1868 and it was named from the Greek word for sun. Not until 1895 was it discovered on the earth. For a time the available amount was so small that the dirigibles Los Angeles and Shenandoah used a common supply and when one ship left the hangar the other had to stay at home.

Pinchot Will Not Seek Senatorship

Milford, Pa., Aug. 29—(AP)—Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania stated today he would not run for United States Senator in opposition to James J. Davis.

The Governor's statement, made at his home, was in answer to speculation on the part of political observers as to what he would do following his demand last week that week that Davis be asked to withdraw as a candidate for reelection.

"I have no intention whatever of running for United States Senator against Jim Davis," Pinchot said. "I undertook to do certain things for the state of Pennsylvania and I am pledged to the people who elected me to carry out that undertaking."

"My job is at Harrisburg and that is where I shall stay."

MONA TOWNSEND, married six months and widowed, inherits her husband's millions providing she does not reveal her marriage, arranged by Townsend's lawyer who was Mona's employer, was a strange affair, leaving her free at the end of a year to become her husband's wife in actuality or secure a divorce. Mona, in love with her husband's nephew, BARRY TOWNSEND, agreed to the marriage when she thought Barry was lost to her.

Barry is in South America where he and STEVE SACCA-RELLI are partners in a diamond mine. Mona's brother, BUD, works for her. LOTTIE CARR, fashion model, is Mona's closest friend. Mona feels Barry is entitled to a share of his uncle's fortune but there is no legal way for her to arrange this. She employs Lottie as her secretary and companion. They sail for South America. Mona hopes for a reconciliation with Barry and also to find a way to give him a share of the Townsend fortune.

Learning that Barry and Steve are on a vacation at Holiday Island, they decide to leave the boat at Port of Spain.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVI

"ARE you going to marry me or aren't you?" asked young Dr. Allen beseechingly.

"The jury is still out," Lottie answered. They were standing at the rail in Bridgetown Harbor, looking across the stretch of water to the shore. The deck was deserted. Mona had gone to the Aquatic Club with an attractive passenger who had come aboard at Martinique.

"Going to the dance tonight?" pursued the doctor.

Lottie shrugged. The Miranda was to remain until midnight so that passengers and crew could attend the weekly hop at the Beach Club.

"Perhaps," Her eyes ignored the earnest young man at her elbow and sought little bobbing specks on the water which were growing larger.

"Diving boys!" she exclaimed. Though the Miranda had been met in the same way in every port Lottie never tired of watching them.

"There are girls too," said Dr. Allen.

"Girls? It's the first port where I've seen women diving!"

There were girls in the boats, sure enough.

"Maybe they won't dive," suggested the doctor. "Maybe the lads just brought them along for scenery."

The girls at the moment were not diving. There were three of them, clad in bathing suits of scarlet, lavender, and green. Each was seated in a small boat with her own dock of boy divers.

"Do you dive?" called Lottie, holding forth an American quarter. The girl in blue looked up and folded her arms.

"Sure," she said scornfully, with out moving.

"Two shillings, mistress! Two shillings!" one of her escorts explained.

THE doctor produced two shillings and fung them toward the girl, who arose and dived gracefully from the boat. She emerged in a moment holding the money aloft and striking out for her boat with swift, clean-cut strokes.

"She doesn't swim as well as the boys," remarked the doctor.

"Want your money back?" Lottie's voice was ingenuously curious. "Look who's here!"

She pointed toward the shore where a tiny boat, urged forth by small shingles held in the hands of its occupant, was leaving the quay. The tiny figure in the perilous bark was another girl, her head flaunting a magnificent bandanna of black and white. The girl was driving her boat rapidly toward the Miranda. She was a novice at handling the bark apparently, but there could be no doubt about her eagerness to reach the steamer.

Presently an agitated parade reached the jetty, headed by a tiny, half-naked, black boy. They selected a boatsman, jumped in the boat he proffered and were after the girl. She turned her head, spied them and redoubled her efforts, splashing through the water frantically.

As she reached the flotilla of native boats it was clear that she was an alien. The natives refused to make way for her and, tossing aside her paddle, the girl rose, poised and cleft the water sharply. Abruptly she came to the surface again and swam toward the companion ladder.

She extended a hand, caught the chain and pulled herself aboard, pushing aside the perplexed quarter-master and running up the ladder.

"Hey, come back! No girls allowed aboard!" he expostulated.

The girl paused to thrust a tongue at him and waved a browned arm toward Lottie. Just as she gained the deck the pursuers reached earshot and the girl ducked through the smoking room, disappearing down the stairs.

"More power to her!" laughed Lottie. "I wonder what's happened? Look—the old lady looks wild!"

THE boat had reached the ship now and the old lady in it did indeed "look wild." Probably she was not very old. She wore the native costume of Martinique and announced that she was nurse for Mademoiselle, who had stolen a boat from a native boy and climbed aboard the boat.

"What's this, what's this?" asked the captain, appearing from the crew's quarters suddenly. "Why, Maria, what's up?"

Maria, her gold earrings jangling, was hastily climbing the companion ladder. Her long skirt was carefully held so that her beautifully trimmed undershirt would show.

"Mademoiselle, she come aboard!" the woman explained angrily. "She run away. I could not stop her!"

"Is Celeste aboard?" The captain broke into hearty laughter. "Her father and mother are aboard, you know. They are going to Demerara. What's wrong with that?"

It appeared there was a great deal wrong with it. Mademoiselle had left her home in Martinique for the purpose of spending a few months in Barbados to learn English. "And to forget the American, Monsieur. You recall the American?"

Captain Lang recalled him, apparently, for he nodded.

Mademoiselle had hoodwinked the household. They had hidden her clothes that she might not board the boat, so here she was in her bathing suit. The native boy had been rudely shoved out of his little shell and he had not liked that.

Lottie watched the girl guide his boat back to shore, richer by several shillings donated by the sympathetic Maria. "I wonder what will happen to the girl?" she asked the doctor amusedly. "I think I'll go and see."

"See you at tea?" asked Dr. Allen as she moved away from the rail.

"Very likely."

As she swung the cabin door open Lottie suddenly caught her breath. Celeste, still in her wet bathing suit was curled up in Lottie's rattan chair.

"You will not betray me?" she asked pleadingly.

"You'll take a chill in that suit," Lottie said, unheeding. "How did you get in here?"

The girl pointed toward the window. Lottie nodded. "And they told us no one could do that!"

THE interloper nodded. "No one could—ordinarily. I climbed the rail easily, but natives could not. The police"—(she pronounced the word quaintly—"would keep them off. Pronto!")

"But you can't stay here, you know," Lottie said, uneasily. An idea occurred to her. "Here, you'll take a chill," Lottie had heard of tropic chills. She pointed to the bathroom.

"Go in there and strip that off. I'll lend you some clothing."

'THIRD DEGREE' MURDER TRIAL DISAGREEMENT

Jurors Unable To Arrive At Verdict In Officers' Trial

Mineola, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(AP)—A decision is expected soon as to whether the prosecutor will press for a second trial for three policemen accused of manslaughter in the "third degree" killing of Jymian Stark, youthful prisoner.

After 19 hours' deliberation, an exhausted jury reported yesterday a "hopeless deadlock" and was discharged. Jurors said that toward the end of the long session they had stood 11 to 1 for acquittal for Detectives Leslie W. Pearsall and Harry Zander and 7 to 5 for conviction of Deputy Chief Frank J. Tappen on a charge of assault.

District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards, expressing disappointment, said that "propaganda put forward by the so-called 'defense committee' and the 'anti-crime society' as well as the speech making publicity over the radio in an attempt to arouse sympathy for the police made it very difficult for us to get a jury wholly unbiassed by propaganda."

Stark died after being questioned in police headquarters about a robbery in which he was accused of striking a detective's mother. The prosecution said he was beaten with rubber hose, blackjacks, fists and feet by police seeking "revenge."

Ten policemen have been indicted for assault in connection with the case, and their trial is set for later.

This may look like Little Willie, the proverbial college freshman, but in reality it's only Jackie Coogan, former juvenile movie star, as he demonstrates his ability as a freshman cheer leader at Santa Clara University, Santa Clara, Calif., to President Lyons of the Jesuit faculty. Jackie was elected frosh cheer leader by his classmates.

It was wash-day at the University of California, at Berkeley, when this picture of Irma Sue Fairchild, sorority pledge there, was taken. It shows Irma going through the traditional "Channing Derby" routine of washing 'em in public as a part of hazing ceremonies conducted by Sigma Delta Chi fraternity.

Youngest Barrymore Makes First Public Appearance

Removal Of U. S. Attorney Asked

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Removal of George R. Jeffrey, United States District Attorney at Indianapolis, has been requested in a letter sent to Attorney General Mitchell by William A. McClellan, Muncie attorney.

McClellan was chief defense counsel for Mayor George R. Dale of Muncie and his 11 co-defendants in a liquor conspiracy trial prosecuted by Jeffrey in the Federal court at Indianapolis. Dale and all but one of the other defendants were convicted in May.

Basing his allegations primarily upon Jeffrey's questioning of a government witness at the trial, McClellan termed Jeffrey "an unfaithful public servant" and one who is "not worthy of holding an office of public trust."

The witness, Thomas Duo, testified that he had transported liquor to Muncie from Canada. McClellan contended that Duncan should have been indicted on the basis of his sworn testimony. Duncan had been held in jail since April but was released last Thursday when the federal grand jury returned a no bill in his case.

DOG GAVE CLUE

Indianapolis, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Because his dog knew the way home Major Parish, a Negro went to jail. The dog was found in a business house that had been broken into, so Claude Davis, a merchant policeman, released the pet and followed him to Parish's residence.

Now Parish wonders whether his dog will be a prosecution witness at his burglary trial.

President Spent Week End In Camp

Washington, Aug. 29.—(AP)—President Hoover returned to his desk early today after spending a week end at his Rapidan camp in the Virginia mountains with a group of friends.

Mrs. Hoover and several members of the party remained at the mountain retreat.

The Chief Executive conferred during the ride from the mountains with Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker and chairman of the central committee of the new business coordination organization. The group stopped at Warrenton, Va., en route to the Capital to allow Mr. Hoover to purchase several morning newspapers.

When the President arose this morning just after daybreak a heavy rain was falling in the mountains, which continued until after 6 a. m. Slippery roads were encountered coming down the mountain but after reaching the valley level the skies were clear and the roads dry.

Despite the necessity for careful driving the presidential party made the return trip in about the customary time, with Mr. Hoover reaching his desk well before 9:30 a. m.

invitation to Smith, who opposed Roosevelt at the Democratic national convention in Chicago, was regarded by some political observers as a move to pave the way for a closer union between Roosevelt and his predecessor both as Governor and as Democratic presidential standard bearer.

Since the Chicago convention former Smith has announced his support of the Democratic national ticket. Yesterday, during the Roosevelt luncheon, he went to Far Rockaway to visit his son, Arthur.

"The truth of the matter," Roosevelt told newspapermen today, "is that Mr. O'Connor called up Al on the phone more than a week ago to ask him to be at the luncheon. Their conversation was extremely friendly but Al actually had a prior engagement and could not be there."

SUIT IS SETTLED

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Rizo von Sternberg, wife of Josef von Sternberg, motion picture director, has settled the suit for alienation of affections she brought against Marlene Dietrich. Announcement of the settlement was contained in a stipulation filed in Supreme Court today. The terms were not disclosed.
